

Environmental Policy

AT3W Group SL. declares its commitment to respect the environment, taking this environmental committal beyond the requirements of current legislation, developing continuous improvement and contributing in this way to the sustainable development of its environment. For all these reasons, AT3W Group SL., voluntarily accepts compliance with the ISO 14001 Standard and the requirements and commitments of the environmental management system.

Our commitment is to carry out our activities based on the following principles:

- Commitment to compliance with applicable environmental legislation and any applicable requirements.
- Commitment to continuous improvement in order to minimise the impact of our activity on the environment, through the identification, analysis and treatment of risks and opportunities.
- Commitment to recycle, where required, the material derived from our activities and correctly manage the waste we produce.
- Establish a program to set and review environmental, technically and economically viable objectives and goals that minimise environmental impacts.
- Promote training, information and environmental awareness of all interested parties in the daily operations of the organization.
- Promote communication of environmental matters, both internally and externally, of the adopted environmental protection measures and the manner in which they can collaborate, both staff, suppliers and customers.

For the correct application of the principles established in this policy, documented action plans are developed that allow us to continuously improve the level of our environmental performance. The evaluation of the effectiveness of these plans and their implementation will be verified with the performance of periodic audits and the review by the management of our environmental results.
